Volunteer Work and Experience

- I have volunteered throughout my High school experience working with children at Sutherland Library as part of the Duke of Edinburgh Award, assisting at the local nursing home Stella Maris helping and cooking foods for local charity meals in Cronulla.
- More recently I have volunteered regularly at Dandelion support Network, doing tasks like building cots and creating clothing packages which aids Dandelion's purpose of providing families less fortunate with children clothing, toys and equipment.
- I am currently (with my family) raising a guide dog puppy, which involves training the puppy, socialising the puppy and teaching it "house manners".

Skills

- Working with Children– Through my teaching degree I have been sent to complete placements at a range of schools where I have to teach students I have no rapport with and therefore develop my communication skills.
- Working with the elderly – Through Volunteer work I have helped at Stella Maris Aged Care Facility, Cronulla, and gained experience helping with the elderly.
- Communication and interpersonal skills – I know the value and importance of good manners, positive communication and respect and I practice these always in my interactions with others. As I have experience working with children and older people I have learnt how to communicate with a range of people, who often may have trouble communicating. I have excellent written and verbal communication and represented my school at zone Public Speaking competitions, and understand how to communicate in a professional manner.
- Teamwork and initiative – my work experience and volunteering has given me excellent experience working individually and as part of a team. I am quick to learn rules and processes, always making sure I follow correct procedures and am accountable for my tasks and responsibilities.
